presents

Co-intelligence and Creative Problem Solving

An action-oriented workshop for Kaua'i nonprofits presented by

Jeff Schwartz, President, Kela Associates, Maui

Tuesday, August 30, 2011, 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Lihu'e Public Library Meeting Room, 4344 Hardy Street

Check-in and refreshments from 8:30 a.m. Session starts promptly at 9:00 a.m.

Cost is $50 and includes 2 hours of individual coaching by phone
Pre-registration Required

Nonprofits boards and staff can get stuck in contentious discussions that are frustrating for all concerned and do not result in optimal performance for the group. Learn the fundamental principles and techniques of effective collaborative decision-making, creative problem solving and co-intelligence. Designed for Kaua'i nonprofit staff and board members.

Learning Objectives:

- ◆ Learn practical tools and techniques for promoting co-intelligent decision-making and creative problem solving in nonprofit settings.
- ◆ Working in small groups, practice applying these tools and techniques to real world problems that have confronted other nonprofits in team settings.
- ◆ Identify key issues, challenges, or opportunities facing Kauai nonprofits and discuss how to apply co-intelligence and creative problem solving to current or emerging issues, challenges, or opportunities.
- ◆ Utilize two hours of telephone or Skype coaching with the facilitator after the workshop to explore applying how to apply these tools and techniques to issues at the participant's organization.

Jeffrey H. Schwartz, President and Founder of Kela Associates, has been a successful organizational innovator, management consultant, entrepreneur, marketer, strategic planner, mentor and coach.
